

BARRE DAILY TIMES

Entered at the postoffice at Barre as second class matter.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1905.

Four of the last five murders in New England were committed by farmhands. It's the dull season of the year.

By all means, as you value your health, breathe through your nose while on Main street. Whirling, grinding, eddying, King Dust rules mockingly.

The general public of Montpelier may rant about the license commissioners of that city, but it will do no good. The license commissioners, under the amended law, are creatures of the side judges of the county, and as such are not responsible to the people or their representatives. The trying-out of the system will probably result in a return to the former local option principle of allowing the selectmen or aldermen of each town to select their own commissioners. The people feel more as if they are running their affairs in that case.

The New York Sun which prints the first extended newspaper account of the great battle of Mukden, gives much of the credit to a man practically unknown to the newspaper reader, Baron Kodama of the general staff. Oyama, with the five generals, Oku, Nodzu, Kuroki, Kamimura and Nogi, the last named in the center bearing the brunt of the movement, was generally given the praise for the success. But while the Wellington of Japan is picked out, the credit of the tremendous victory lies in large part in the national sentiment.

Don't button-hole a friend to discuss the Japan-Russian war, the San Domingo treaty or Cassie Chadwick's sentence. Take a subject that is right up-to-date, for instance our fancy Cheviot Suits in the new grey-green—the new color, which of course we have because it's new. Others will have it later.

SOUTHERN INDUSTRY.

I.
"Make hay while the sun shines"—
That's the proper tune,
But if the sun ain't shinin'
Just make it by the moon!

II.
But make it—
Oh, make it,
An' pile it up an' shake it,
Every day!
For Time keeps a-lyin'
An' Life is dyin', dyin',
So toil, an' stop the sighin'
Every day!
